

Welcome to the July Newsletter.

Return to Race – we are finally starting to see the first events after the lifting of restrictions and they are largely different as we try to follow the government guidelines of social distancing. What this means for grassroots motorsport, there is currently limited or no pit crew or family or spectators allowed, no scrutineering and no drivers briefing. This will make it make it somewhat challenging for new drivers, but not impossible. You will need to be very thorough in the planning and leadup to the event. I imagine the landscape will improve as restrictions loosen.

Painting progress

With the fresh paint, we will be revealing a new livery for the cars later in the year at an upcoming sausage sizzle.
